The Spatiotemporal Analysis Farming Guide Using AI-Powered System leverages AI and machine learning to analyze soil content, weather patterns, and crop growth over time and space. It provides farmers with real-time recommendations on the best crops to plant based on soil nutrient levels (NPK), pH, and environmental factors. The system helps in early detection of plant diseases and optimizing crop yield by giving precise guidance on fertilization, planting schedules, and disease management, enhancing farm productivity and sustainability